Efforts To Bar U.N. Cold War Debate Collapse

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -East-West negotiations aimed at deferring cold war issues in the U.N. General Assembly collapsed Tuesday and delegates braced themselves for at least six weeks of stormy debate.

Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, assembly president, said the special Political Committee will meet Wednesday.

This will be the curtain raiser for detailed assembly consideration of such hot issues as disarmament and the Congo crisis. Even debate over Red China's actions in Tibet and Soviet suppression of the Hungarian revolt could not be ruled out for the resumed assembly session.

Action Asks $12 Million In Damages

Justice Dept., TVA Claim Overcharges By Five Companies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Five electrical manufacturers, including America's two biggest, were sued Tuesday for nearly $12 million by the United States government for alleged overcharges in the sale of oil circuit breakers since 1951.

A joint civil action was filed in Federal District Court here by the Justice Department and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

It said the collusive rigging of bids and the illegal fixing of prices-in violation of antitrust law-resulted in prices that were about 40 per cent higher than what should have been charged. Named defendants in the huge suit were General Electric Co., New York; Westinghouse Electric Corp., Pittsburgh: Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., West Allis, Wis.; Federal Pacific Electric Co., Newark, N.J., and I-T-E Circuit Breaker Co., Philadelphia.

The Justice Department seeks double the alleged overpayment for five U.S. agencies while TVA separately wants triple damages. Seven Executives Jailed

The five were among 29 big companies and 44 of thei. executives who pleaded guilty or no defense earlier this year to bid rigging and price fixing in the sale of 20 different products grossing nearly $2 billion annually.

In disposing of 20 criminal indictments, U.S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Ganey levied fines totalling $1,924,500 and sent seven execu-Program Would tives to jail. Two served 26 days, the remainder 25. All went free last week.

Revaluation Of The Deutschmark

The five per cent increase in the value of the deutschmark in relation to the U.S. dollar means that West German industries will either have to absorb the increase in production costs or raise the price of their exports.

These movements in international finance mean little to workaday folk, but they mean much to businessmen engaged in foreign trade. A company which, for example, owed the equivalent of $1,000 in deutschmarks to a West German supplier would require $1,050 to settle the Investment in West Germany will look less attractive to American businessmen and the flow of U. S. dollars across the Atlantic should

The U.S. has powerful financial interests in West Germany. These are spread through industry, banks, insurance companies and real estate. One has only to compare the vast difference in the state of Germany in the period of 1918-33 with the country's state in 1945-61 to realize that something more than the will to work hard was needed to create present prosperity.

The difference is impressive and an indication of the magnitude of American investment. The contrast is heightened when it is remembered that during the first war Germany suffered little material damage while during the second it was devastated and had to be rebuilt.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Monument To Goodness

Everyday something comes in here that is interesting, exciting, dull or hateful. An interesting letter came from Sam Engler to remind me of the Educational Alliance, a Settlement House on the lower East Side of New York which produced, over the years, a galaxy Cantor and David Sarnoff, have become household

As I look over the list of youngsters of my time who found their careers and personalities in the Educational Alliance, there stands Sir Jacob Epstein, the great British sculptor. Sir Jacob was an East Side boy who came to the Alliance to draw and sculpt. These were poor boys-all of them-and our parents were immigrants from Eastern Europe which was as disturbed then as it is now.

In the muck and truck that was the East Side of New York, which mothered gangs and mobs, there stood this building where anyone who wanted to expand his personality and give vent to his talent had an

There are youngsters these days who talk about the breaks. None of us had any breaks. None of us had any economic security or expected ever to have. We had our choice as children to play on the sidewalks, to join gangs, to steal and burgle or to go to some such place as the Educational Alliance and do something useful and exciting.

One thinks, for instance, of Eddie Cantor as an actor. I never do or can. I think of Eddie Cantor as a person who devoted his life to good works. We were kids and the Summer was hot. We had never seen grass except in a city park and although we knew what milk is, we had never seen a cow. Some of us were asked if we cared to go to the country for two weeks. There were no charges but the expenses were high, as we had to buy a toothbrush and toothpaste and bathing trunks. This all costs money and it took some negotiating to get the dollar or two that was required for expenses because none of us had dollars.

Whenever I hear these days of the underprivileged who get free milk and free orange juice and perhaps a hot meal at school, I wonder how anyone can be underprivileged who gets so much.

For us, there was a joy in the discovery of new worlds and the camp up on Surprise Lake was something never to be forgotten. We slept in tents and ate on a pavilion and had to do the chores, but at night we sat around a camp fire, singing songs. And perhaps we were a little afraid of the darkness and the quiet and the hoot-owl, because we were accustomed to city

It was this camp that had the most profound influence on my life and I know what it did for Eddie, a tubercular little boy who slept in a cellar. It made of him a philanthropist because Eddie's work has been to keep this camp growing and expanding. Eddie has never forgotten the day we took a train up to Cold Spring-far from the East Side and we saw our first snake and caught our first cat-fish.

Everyday we lived intensely and everyday we discovered something new over at the Alliance. For instance, one day, a man dressed in white came to see us. We were told that he was famous. He amused us and we laughed. We had given a performance of a play he had written, "The Prince and the Pauper." We were told that his name was Mark Twain and so we came close to the hem of authentic greatness.

There is so much to tell of the Educational Alliance and of those early days, more than half a century ago when we were small children, unafraid, sure of ourselves, possessing few of the material things of life. but grateful to have a place to go where there were books, and games and art and clubs and all the doors that opened new worlds to us. The old building still stands but they are going to enlarge it. A new generation of youngsters is ready to march through its portals to discover that life can be full and rich.

Exposure Of Communist Activities Necessary

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON-The House of Representatives has just given an overwhelming vote of confidence to its committee on Un-American Activities. But, while this is constructive, it doesn't altogether solve the problem of how to expose the efforts of the Soviet government to infiltrate certain colleges, churches, newspapers, radio and television stations, labor unions and businesses in the United States. There are also many "cause" organizations with ostensibly worthy purposes which are Communist-inspired. The real problem is how to distinguish between those individuals who sincerely and honestly advocate policies they truly believe in and those who are influenced by intermediaries to write or demonstrate in behalf of various causes. Many such intermediaries are believed to be in the pay of the Communists.

The very movement launched recently on such an extensive scale to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities has become suspect. While there are many persons who on principle do not like any Congressional investigations, there are others, who, though joining in the attack on the House Committee procedures, are strangely silent when other Congressional committees use virtually the same tactics to ferret out the facts.

There was a time in American history when newspapers and magazines alone took the leadership in exposing wrongdoing, but the courts lately have narrowed the freedom of the press in this respect by decisions in libel cases. Testimony and statements given before Congress and its committees, on the other hand, are immune from damages for libel when published. If, therefore, committee investigations were abolished, the opportunities for misleading the American people and subverting American institutions would grow by leaps and bounds. The Communists know this, and that's why they have gotten behind the drive to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It means the difference between exposure of the Communist activities inside this country and hiding the facts about attempted subversion.

The House Committee, to be sure, has an even more important role-to educate those who are innocently deceived by Communist subversive tactics in America. Perhaps the clearest explanation of what is going on today has come from the pen of Roy M. Brewer of New York City, vice chairman of the Council Against Communist Aggression. He writes:

"The extreme effort which the Communist Party is making to destroy and discredit the Committee on Un-American Activities is evidence of the fear which the party has for the disclosures of the Committee.

No one has more fully recognized the necessity of separating the hard core-who are the perpetrators of the conspiratorial work-and the victims who make up the periphery of the apparatus under the mistaken belief that they are working for civil rights and humanitarian causes.

"But this should not blind us to the fact that the periphery is an important part of the Communist apparatus. Without it the Communist Party could not confuse and divide us as they do now. Therefore any disclosures which tend to break the line of communication between the hard "I doubt if there is any person core and the periphery group will er personal effort to help those over-all operation to the degree

GREAT MOMENTS-The Washington correspondents held their annual dinner-the biggest everthe other evening, with President Kennedy as the guest of honor.

An effort was made to give the dinner a bi-partisan touch, so arrangements were made to award a watch as a memento to the outgoing assistant White House physician, Col. Walter Tkach. The Hamilton Watch Co. donated the timepiece, and it was the high point of the evening for the company's public relations man.

Imagine his reaction when Kennedy, with a flourish, turned to Dr. Tkach and said, "I give you this Swiss watch.

HELP-Under the new House Rules Committee procedure, a Congressional witness went before the committee the other day to testify on one of those bills he approved publicly, but opposed privately. Sensing that Chairman Howard Smith would no longer protect him, the Congressman had his say, then quickly escaped before he could be questioned. Smith remarked to his colleagues that it was the first time the committee had lost a witness. Then in a humorously reminiscent mood, he recalled the Congressman who came before his committee in the late 1930s to testify in favor of the Townsend plan-a scheme to provide pensions for all elderly people.

This Congressman happened to be a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is charged with originating revenue legislation. He was a little embarrassed at having to back the Townsend plan publicly, while knowing he would have to oppose it in his own committee because of the revenue features.

When he was asked by Smith what he really wanted, the hapless Congressman blurted out. "All I want is to get out of here."

"The usual cry against the committee is that it is maligning innocent people. Innocent in what respect? Innocent of membership in the party, perhaps, but not of being a part of the transmission belt that has sold so much of the Communist line to America and the world.

The people who are drawn unwittingly into this web should not be branded as traitors, nor should they be considered disloyal. But they should assume responsibility for

"It is really the lack of understanding of the true nature of Communism that has caused the greatest criticism of the House Committee. The public doesn't fully understand that one can really be a part of the Communist apparatus without intending to be, that one can serve the Communist purpose without being sympathetic to its aims.

"If the so-called liberals of America want to be worthy of the name, then they must assume the leadership against the most reactionary force in the history of the world-the world Communist conspiracy.

"In the meantime, it is our duty as citizens to help the American people understand the problem and to interpret the disclosures of the House Committee and other investigating groups rather than try to destroy them because we don't like the facts they have disclosed."

What Mr. Brewer says will be echoed by almost all the members of Congress irrespective of party. They don't want to injure the reputation of anyone who is truly innocent, but they do want American public opinion to be informed that suppression of the facts bearing on the operations of the Communist conspiracy inside the United States is not only un-American but dangerous to the safety of this country.

Pressure From Powell

Congressman Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem, the second Negro in history to serve as chairman of a Congressional committee, is operating quite differently from the other Negro chairman, Congressman William Dawson of Chicago, both Democrats.

Powell is throwing his weight around. He has been issuing directives that other Congressmen who are chairmen of subcommittees could not make long-distance phone calls without coming to Powell for permission. He has also banned press releases by sub-chairmen unless ok'd by him. Or if he was absent, Powell authorized his fellow Congressmen to see his secretary, Louise M. Dargans, to get permission to make a phone call or issue a press release.

This caused a furor. In a recent closed-door session, other Congressmen saw red.

"If you don't withdraw these absurd memos, they'll wind up in my wastebasket," Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey told Powell, referring to his directives. "I resent such dictatorial tactics and, of course, will ignore Congressmen John Dent of Pennsylvania and James Roosevelt of California, the latter from a heavy Negro district, chimed in with Thompson. Finally Powell agreed to withdraw his directives and let subcommittee chairmen use their discretion about phone calls and press relations.

Immediately, there occurred another blow-up over Powell's insistence that an amendment covering hotel and restaurant workers, already vetoed by a subcommittee, be restored in the minimum wage bill

"President Kennedy doesn't want this amendment in the bil and has said so," objected Dent.

"It isn't feasible at this time and may wreck the whole bill on the House floor." Powell has a large number of hotel and restaurant workers in his Harlem district. He shot back:

"I think it should be kept in the bill. The subcommittee rejected it without approval of a caucus of the full committee's Democrats." "You, yourself, are acting without caucus approval by arbitrarily trying to restore the amendment," fumed Dent. "That isn't very Democratic.' Republican Rep. William Ayres of Ohio then sided with Powell. "The gentleman from Ohio." chided Roosevelt, "and some of his Republican colleagues apparently would like to see the bill loaded with crippling amendments, so that it will be defeated on the House floor. The gentle-against the bill.

President Kennedy probably doesn't realize it, but his proposed tire-tax hike will hit a lot of small businessmen who already are suffering tough competition from the big tire companies-the retreaders.

The retreaders sprang up from almost nothing a few years ago to demonstrate that you could take discarded tires and make them so usable that today a large percentage of truck and airplane tires are retreads. But having proved this, the small retreaders watched the big tire manufacturers enter their field and take part of their business away.

Now comes another blow. To pay for the new highway program, Kennedy proposes to increase the tax on retreading rubber at the rate of 33 per cent.

The tax on new tires is to go up from eight cents to ten cents a pound, the tax on tread rubber from three cents to ten cents. While the final tax on both new tires and tread rubber remains the same-ten cents-the increase for the retreaders is far greaterprobably enough to put about 10,000 retreaders out of business. Archeology sounds like dull sport in five syllables. It isn't. It's the Peeping Tom of the sciences. It is the sand box of men who care not where they are going, they merely want to know where everybody else has been. Ed Link is the newest of the fulltime archeologists. He spent a half million on a boat just to get to where he wants to dig.

He and his wife Marion write learned things for the National Geographic Magazine and, in a few weeks, Life Magazine will have an article about their expedition to Israel. Link is a tall. polite, bald man with an attractive wife who became a newspaper reporter when she graduated from Syracuse University. She's the historian of the expedi-

Ed came a long way to get to archeology, which, as a boy he could not pronounce until his father took the wires off his teeth. The elder Link made pianos and pipe organs in Binghamton, N. Y. The piano business hit a clinker and Ed began to barnstorm, after World War I, with pilots who flew OX-5s through cow pastures and wore leather helmets and goggles.

Around 1926, Ed, who is an inventor, decided that aviation was going to become a business someday and, when it did, someone would have to find a way of flying through bad weather. This lec to the invention of blind flying instruments which, in turn, led to the invention of the first Link

The nice part of the Link trainer was that it was inside a room and, if the student crashed, nothing more grave than his marks fell.

The Link trainer is still selling but it is called a simulator. The big jet simulators are still cockpits in a room but they can imitate any emergency with a great deal of realism and they cost about a million dollars apiece. Ed sold the company to General

Precision Instrument five years ago for $5,250,000. Now, at 56, he is retired; a nice age and a nice sum. He was on vacation at Key Marathon, Fla., when he discoverout on a fishing boat and taught Link to hunt for wrecks on the bottom of the sea.

That did it. Soon, Mrs. Link was diving, although, truthfully, she didn't look like much in the weighted shoes, the rubber suit and the fish bowl on the head. Since then, they have become addicted to ocean archeology, which is livelier than digging into the tombs of the Incas and the Pharaohs.

Their boat is called The Sea Diver. It is specially constructed of steel, and is 91 feet long. It is a trawler with twin diesels, big suction pumps which vacuum the floor of the sea, glass ports in the bottom to look below, and a stern which opens up to permit divers to walk into and out of the sea.

They have been on full-scale scientific expeditions to Cape Haitien, Caicos Island, Jamaica and Israel. At Haiti, Ed looked for the flagship Santa Maria of Christopher Columbus' fleet. It was sunk Christmas Eve 1492. Ed didn't find the ship, but he found its anchor and it now reposes in the Smithsonian Institu-

He hunted the lost city of Port Royal, which fell into the sea around noon one day in 1692 off Jamaica. An earthquake did it. The Links had good luck on that one. They found the city on the bottom, almost intact. A gold watch showed the time to be 11:43. They found an intact tavern, complete with mugs and jugs and bottles of liquor, still sealed.

Last year they hunted King Herod's lost port of Caesarea off Haifa and the Links will go back there next month. King Herod the great founded Caesarea before the time of Christ. They have already discovered cases of Roman pottery, evidently shipped to Caesarea and perhaps lost in a

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

After a knock-down, drag-out fight with his wife, a husband with a low burning point was in such a rage that he cried. "I'm through! This is the last straw. I'm heading out of this place and do what I've always wanted to do. Me for the wilds of Africa where I can track down lions, tigers, cobras and cannibals!"

He strode determinedly to the door, flung it open, then ran quickly back into the living room. "Lucky thing for you," he muttered in a strangely subdued voice. "It's drizzling! A man with a very sore throat

Kennedy Will Address Seniors At West Virginia

Visits Morgantown For Commencement

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House Tuesday confirmed that President Kennedy will deliver the commencement address at West Virginia University in Morgantown June 5.

Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia reported Monday that Kennedy had accepted an invitation to be the commencement speaker. This presumably rules out a similar address at Westminster College at Fulton. Mo., which falls on the same day. Kennedy had been asked to make the commencement address there.

In accepting the West Virginia invitation, Kennedy is keeping a promise he had made to Barron to visit that state this year.

Kennedy's victory in the Democratic preferential primary in West Virginia played a key role in his winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., dropped out of the presidential race after Kennedy defeated him in West Vir-

Washington Pulls Triple Play In Game

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)-Kansas City broke Washington's three - game exhibition streak 2-1 Tuesday behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Archer, Dick Hall and Bob Hartman.

The Senators came up with a triple play to squelch an A's rally in the third inning. A walk to Dick Howser, a single by Lou Klimchock, a throwing error by rightfielder Jim King and a single by Hank Bauer produced two runs. Norm Siebern walked to put men on first and second, but Washington shortstop Bob Johnson speared Heywood Sullivan's sinking liner, threw to second baseman John Schaive to double Bauer and Shaive whipped the ball to Dale Long to get Siebern. The Senators scored their run in the fourth on a double by Long and a single by Harry Bright.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR IS LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
